SEARCHED AT LAKE BICHE FOR VICTIMS OF DROWNING TRAGEDY PROVES FUTILE

Every Available Boat is Used in Work; Matheson Aided by Residents

Paint Hope is Still Held by Some That Missing Party May Turn Up Alive, Having Landed at Some Outlying Part of Lake—General Opinion is That It Was Impossible for Boat to Have Survived Storm That Raged on Wednesday Afternoon.

(By Bulletin Staff Reporter)

LAC LA BICHE, August 12.—After a thorough dragging of the bottom of the lake, lasting all yesterday afternoon and until dark last night, during which time every available boat was used, under the supervision of Corporal Matheson, M.N.W.M.P., hope has practically been abandoned of immediately finding the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Flowers, Mrs. E. L. Williams and Mrs. H. E. Soper, who perished on Wednesday afternoon during the terrific wind and rain storm.

However, there are still a few who cling to the theory that the bodies may be found in the lake, and have been lost in the thick growth of trees and underbrush which surrounds the lake. Strength is lent to this theory by the fact that the boat, the extra pair of oars, a camera, the cushions and the seats were all found upon the shore within a comparatively few yards of each other, seeming to indicate that the party had made the landing and had set out for the lake.

It is pointed out that the party have been lost after being caught in a storm, sometimes not reporting until three days afterwards. In fact, in the storm of Wednesday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. A. Von Hammerstein were stranded upon an island and were not taken until Thursday morning.

But those who cling to the theory that the party will yet be found are comparatively few, largely being made up of the relatives and close friends of the four victims. The storm on Wednesday was of a nature along and raising white caps in its wake that dashed several feet higher than the pier in front of the hotel.

Impossible to Weather Storm.

It was impossible for a small boat, such as the missing boat, to weather the storm. This is according to the statements of the men of the lake, all of whom hurried to the shore when the storm was raging, and saw the boat being tossed about in the lake. The boat was found on Wednesday morning, and it is fully felt that the boat was not in the lake for a few moments before the storm broke. Mr. and Mrs. Soper were seen when the boat was in the lake, and it was felt that it was caught in the storm. The boat was seen to be tossed about in the lake, and it was felt that it was caught in the storm.

The nearest point of mainland was more than ten miles away, and it was directly against the wind. That the boat was not seen until it was reaching its destination on the opposite shore, is not surprising, considering the size of the lake, and the fact that the pieces of wreckage in the lake were not seen until it was too late to do anything but be buried.

Boat Recovered.

First reports of the accident indicated that the boat was not in the storm, but was being blown into the lake with the wind. It was, however, not until it was seen that it was in the lake. It appears that Mrs. Flowers, who was in the boat, was not seen until it was too late to do anything but be buried.

When the boat was last seen, it was heading towards the mainland, and it was felt that it was heading towards the mainland. It was, however, not until it was seen that it was in the lake. It appears that Mrs. Flowers, who was in the boat, was not seen until it was too late to do anything but be buried.

As soon as the boat was seen, it was felt that it was heading towards the mainland, and it was felt that it was heading towards the mainland. It was, however, not until it was seen that it was in the lake. It appears that Mrs. Flowers, who was in the boat, was not seen until it was too late to do anything but be buried.

The other launch had not reported, and Corporal Matheson and his party went out in search of the party. Before he got to the boat, he found it in a boat which was not in the lake. It was, however, not until it was seen that it was in the lake. It appears that Mrs. Flowers, who was in the boat, was not seen until it was too late to do anything but be buried.

How little blame proper escaped from the party, forms one of the most unusual features of the accident. The boat was not in the lake for a few moments before the storm broke. Mr. and Mrs. Soper were seen when the boat was in the lake, and it was felt that it was caught in the storm.

When Mr. Soper received it he had not been in the lake for a few moments before the storm broke. Mr. and Mrs. Soper were seen when the boat was in the lake, and it was felt that it was caught in the storm.

On receiving the news of the accident, the Edmonton and British Columbia railway companies agreed to send a special train from Edmonton to the lake, and on Friday morning the train arrived at the lake.

Among those who made the trip were the relatives and friends of the victims of the disaster. Mr. J. F. McMillan, manager of the Edmonton and British Columbia railway, was one of the men who made the trip.

It was, however, not until it was seen that it was in the lake. It appears that Mrs. Flowers, who was in the boat, was not seen until it was too late to do anything but be buried.

LITTLE FIGHTING ON BRITISH LINE

British Airships Carry Out Number of Successful Operations

(By Morning Bulletin Special Wire)

PARIS, Aug. 11.—The French to the north of the Somme River, in the direction of the German line, have captured additional German trenches near Marivaux and a fortified quarry to the south of the Horn Wood, according to the official communiqué issued this evening.

To the north of the Somme the French have captured the German line, which was brilliantly carried out by our troops and our soldiers. Several German trenches were captured, and the German line was pushed back to the south of the Horn Wood, according to the official communiqué issued this evening.

To the north of the Horn Wood a powerful fortified quarry and two small woods fell into our hands. In the course of the fighting we captured 10 machine guns. To the south of the Somme the British fighting is intense.

On the Verdun front our first and second lines in the region of Chateau and in the Bousmout are being strongly defended. Several German trenches were captured, and the German line was pushed back to the south of the Horn Wood, according to the official communiqué issued this evening.

The war office statement follows: The first of the British front was increased pressure, the attack on the German line was continued, and the German line was pushed back to the south of the Horn Wood, according to the official communiqué issued this evening.

CONFERENCES WILL BE HELD ANNUALLY

Rural Leadership Conference Has Resulted in Much Benefit

CLOSING SESSION HELD YESTERDAY

Principal Address Was That Given by A. M. McDonald

The Rural Leadership Conference at the University of Alberta, held for the purpose of spreading knowledge of the best ways of dealing with the major social problems in the field of the country settlements, was brought to a close at night.

It was fairly certain that these conferences will be held annually at the university. They are held under the auspices of the extension, and during the course of the "round table" talk the afternoon. A. H. Ottewill, secretary to the Department of Agriculture, was very frank about all the work he had done to make the conference so valuable and successful.

It was generally decided to make the conference an annual event. E. W. Wood, president, United Farmers of Alberta, said that it was well worth the effort to make the conference an annual event.

How to make the conference a reality was the subject of the afternoon. A. H. Ottewill said that everything was being done to make the conference a reality.

The conference was a success. It was a success in many ways. It was a success in many ways. It was a success in many ways. It was a success in many ways.

BRITISH AND TURKS FIGHT EAST OF SUEZ

British Cavalry Fall Back Before Turks Counter Attacks—The Turks Later Retire

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Fighting between the British and Turkish forces in Egypt east of the Suez canal, continued on August 10, but with important changes in the positions of the forces on either side, according to an official statement issued this evening.

Turkish counter attacks and British cavalry attacks were both successful, but the British retired to their original positions.

The following is a summary of the accounts of the battle still filtering

through the news.

The British forces were notably successful in their attacks on the Turkish positions on the left, and the British retired to their original positions.
